Throughout the country, tomorrow will be Candy Day! Do you eat candy? Food scientists tell us the food value is high. It supplies heat and strength to the system. Like everything else it can be overdone. But if it is pure, and the pure food laws are taking care of that phase of the question, it is a valuable and nutritious food.

There's a fellow in this town who takes home a box of candy to his wife every Saturday—and has without fail for sixteen years. Does she love him? What a question! Speaking of habits, this looks like a good one to acquire, to offset some of the others most of us men folk have.

The local firms on this page are equipped to fill your demands tomorrow. On your way home drop in and select a box or phone any of these stores.
